ODD-FELLOWS' ANNIVERSARY.

The Fifty-Second Since its Foundation ! the United States-A Happpy Reunion in Their Hall Last Night.

Elequent Discourse by Dr. Ford-Tribute of Respect to "Mas," as distinguished from a Clothes Peg-The Origin of Odd-Fellowship, with Much Other Interesting Reading.

The fifty-second anniversary of the foundation of the Odd Fellows' Association in the United States was celebrated in their hall last night, in a happy and impressive manner. The hall was filled with members and their wines. The opening prayer was offered by Dr. Pat-terson, after which Dr. Ford, the gentle-man selected to deliver the address, spoke in a familiar and pleasant manner to the brotherhood for about an hour. The address was full of wit, anecdots and fun. Dr. Ford commenced in a humorostyle, by asking if the brotherhood a the andience had come there to hear an oration, an address or enything in that line. Some of you, said the speaker, know me too well to suspect me of any such cruelty. You expect nothing of the kind, and blessed is he who expects noth kind and bleesed is he who expects nothing to-night, for he will not be disappointed, whatever the others may be I am addressing Odd-Fellows, an odd thing for me to do, but your request was so kind and pressing that I could not refuse you. I will try to be even with you odd-Fellows before I am through; but I see some of you are even—gems of beauty gleam beside you. I wonder often how such homely men have managed to get such handsome wives. But woman's heart is full of pity. If it were otherwise, I pity the chance of some of you, and including myself. Men are strange beings—these hard-fisted, broad-shouldered, bearded men. Man—what is he? He has been defined—an animal that cooks his victuals, fined—an animal that cooks his victuals, and consequently "there is reason in wasting eggs."
